Workshop Announcement/Call for Papers

“Corruption, Inequality, and Poverty”

May 4-5, 2018 Chicago, IL

The Institute for Corruption Studies (ICS) at Illinois State University announces its inaugural workshop on corruption, to be held in Chicago on May 4-5, 2018. While the workshop theme is “Corruption, Inequality, and Poverty”, papers on any topic related to corruption are invited. The two-day workshop will serve as a forum to present current research and will give researchers the opportunity to network.

The keynote speakers will be:

Alina Mungiu-Pippidi (Hertie School of Governance)

Eric M. Uslaner (University of Maryland-College Park)

ICS will cover travel expenses (up to $500 domestic economy class airfare and up to $1,000 international economy class airfare) and lodging (to be arranged by ICS) for the paper presenters. As the workshop intends to build a network among the researchers who work on corruption, papers from all social science and legal disciplines are invited.

Those interested in participating should send a complete paper or an extended abstract to Oguzhan Dincer at odincer@ilstu.edu, no later than February 25, 2018. Acceptance decisions will be made by early March 2018.

The Institute for Corruption Studies (greasethewheels.org) is a new research initiative, focusing on the broader economic and political aspects of corruption issues on a national and global scale, founded in 2016.
